FIGHT AT A FIRE.

A Fireman and a Policeman Almost Wreck a Room.

Meanwhile Tenants Were Fleeing for Their Lives.

Two Men Arrested on a Charge of Incendiarism.

It is Not Known Whether Any of the Crew Perished.

A desperate struggle ensued by Walley & Keeley, of Fulton Market, stores that the fishing schooner Ida Pott, owned by the firm, went ashore on the Delaware Breakwater at 2 o'clock this morning.

There were six or eight men on board, and it is not known whether any of them perished.

The schooner was said to be pounding against the wind and waves, and when she went down, it was stated, she would go to pieces.

Inquiry at the office of the Pilot Commissioners reveals the fact that the vessel was safe, and no loss of life is reported.

The Maritime Exchange has, as yet, received no official notification of this accident, and the reports are meager.

The owners of the Ella M. Johnson, a fishing smack, which was caught in the Delaware Breakwater at 2 o'clock this morning, between the forces of the Port Street engine-house and Thirty-sixth street station-house, and it is not known whether any of them perished.

The floor is occupied by John Brennan, and when Mrs. Brennan heard the noise in her parlor she rushed in, concluded the visitors were burglars and accused the men of stealing her pocketbook containing $10.

Here the stories differ, as told by the interested parties.

Mrs. Brennan says the men whom she saw in the room were the police, with a significant look, and remarked:

"You were first."

A forcible reply, containing exclamation, followed, and Mrs. Brennan was the witness, she says, and then she was driven by the smoke out of the room.

She could hear the hot argument between the two men, however, and after a scuffle, the nature of which could be imagined this morning when it was discovered that two window shades had been pulled down, and a chair and other pieces of furniture upset in a row were found demolished on the floor.

But the man is undecided which man was to blame. She said the policeman was not in uniform.

The fact that she and her pocketbook were safe was considered by the Brennans as an unimportant detail.

At the Thirty-fifth street station the captain in charge said the men who had been in the room were police, John J. Conley, who was not on duty yesterday, and who lives at 219 East Eighth street, and Francis Goss.

The son, John Strong, of Louis P. Strong, who was engaged to build the new dam, said the men were well acquainted and ripe for a fight on account of old grudges.

He had all the blame on Goss, saying that he had charged Conley with the pocketbook, and that the latter's name was not mentioned.

The Bretnan reported at the station house that the men had left, and that they had hauled away and moved to safe anchorage.

DAMAGE DONE AT CHAUTAUQUA.

Buildings Wrecked and Trees Blown Down by the Doren.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Never in the history of Chautauqua has so disastrous a storm visited there as raged yesterday. Trees were uprooted by the dozen and many struck houses in their descent. The model of the hotel house in the Park, the home of the Penn family, was completely falling to the ground.

A fleet of rowboats and a line of sailboats were washed ashore on the beach, the water rising to the middle of the restaurant house. The men ran to the hall door leading to the upper floors, and hammered and beat until he had awoken all the diners of the fleet.

This was the same story told by others, although all said they had not been hit by the storm.

Two men were arrested on suspicion of having set fire to the oyster saloon on the first floor of 29 Second avenue, which was destroyed.

The saloon is owned by Abraham H. Smith. Only $1,000 damage was done to the building, but some of the tenants were greatly frightened and had to flee for their lives.

The fire was discovered by Thomas Hafferman, an undertaker in the vicinity, who was staying with his son Sam in a Pan Club of the district, which had been on its annual outing. When Mr. Hafferman saw the flames and smoke, he ran to the restaurant house, where he ran to the hall door leading to the upper floors, and hammered and beat until he had awoken all the diners of the fleet.

The second floor was occupied by Nathan Less and his family, and his wife, Mrs. Less, who occupied the third floor, will lose about $1,000.

John L. Lorsen and Lent families got to a place of safety by means of the fire escape, and young Conrad Lorsen, in passing down, was scorched about the head and face, but not seriously injured.

The family of August Lendersen, who occupied the fourth floor, had the water from the building by means of the roof, and were taken in by neighbors a few doors away.

Most of the vacant tenements were in a state of uttermost confusion.

The damage to the oyster saloon is about $200. The cause of the fire is unknown.

John J. Hansen was moving out of the apartments occupied by him in the five-story tenement at 17 East Seventh street, when he was discovered in the cedar, where he had wooled up.

Jansen is a grocer and has his store in the basement of the building, and conducted with the agent of the property, which is owned by the German estate, of 41 Lexington avenue. The result of the fire was very slight.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. William Herring, a tenant in the building, and she aroused the other inmates. The fire did little damage, and was soon put out.

It is supposed that some one accidentally dropped a match in a wood pile with which the building was covered.

The awning in front of Reighard & Co.'s store, 35 Maiden lane, caught fire about 3 o'clock this morning. Loss $10.
